Letters from those unable to attend the reunion were read, and the following original poem was written and read by Mrs. Rena Foster:

1889-1939

So it was 50 years ago
When we, so young and gay,
Walked up the hill with hearts aglow
To enter Old G. A.

Many happy "get-togethers" we have had
Since that glad day,
Many classmates, dear and faithful,
We have lost along the way.

Fifty years have brought such changes
As we never dreamed could be,
But we've lived in the best era
This old world will ever see.

So, as we today look backward
To that distant happy day,
Let us all rejoice together
That we went to Old G. A.

ROUTES & DISTANCES FROM BETHEL LISTED

Natives May Give More Information to Travelers — or Use for Own Convenience

Stressing the admirable features of the town of Bethel as a center for vacationists in the Maine and White Mountain section, the folder advertising the town supplies distances to many points but gives no further directions. For the convenience of our readers distances and routes to several places in the State and a few in New Hampshire are recorded here this week. This list is far from complete and may not in all cases supply the best route, as opinions are not likely to agree. The distances however are believed to be nearly correct and it is hoped that it will be of assistance to both local people and others who may seek advice in traveling.

Bethel is unique among the smaller towns of the State, it is believed, in being located on five numbered routes. In this way it is found easily by travelers, and so its residents should become familiar with the layout that they and the traveling public may benefit. As long as the town has no official information booth the task of offering intelligent information and direction will fall on us all.

Johnny Appleseed a Missionary

For years the story of Johnny Appleseed has lain dormant in many minds. Born John Chapman in 1774, he wandered over the Middlewest, especially in Indiana and Ohio, scattering apple seeds wherever he found a fertile spot and returning later to prune the trees into which they grew. Betimes he acted as missionary, friend and "medicine man" to white settler and Indian alike, reading the Bible to all who would listen, giving advice and doctoring with simple remedies. His clothes were always of the plainest. History relates that his shirt was generally a coffee sack, his hat often an inverted cooking tin. He took life as he found it, happy in leaving behind him a trail of homely philosophy and flourishing fruit trees.

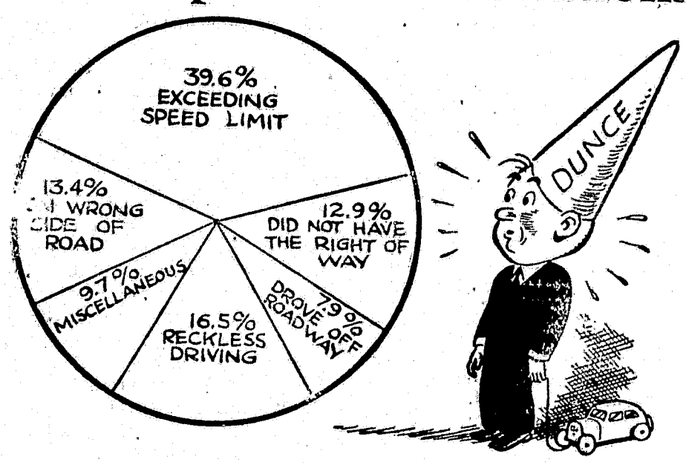
Exceeding Speed Limit Tops Traffic Violations



The percentage of fatal automobile accidents due to excessive speed increased again in 1938 according to an analysis released by The Travelers Insurance Company. Three years ago, in 1936, 32.6% of all persons killed as the result of some driver's lawlessness met death because of speed. In 1937 that percentage rose to 36.8%. Last year, 8,410, or 39.6% of the total of 32,000 persons who died in automobile accidents, were killed because of exceeding speed limits.

Is experience the best teacher? If so, the lesson taught by the annually mounting total of deaths due to excessive speed is not being taken seriously by drivers. Millions of words are poured into type each year in an effort to stem the rising tide of fatalities due to the single factor of speed, but just as children will play with matches, so the automobile drivers of America continue to toy with speed, killing thousands annually.

No one can regard with complacency last year's record of 32,000 killed and more than a million injured, or the fact that speed was the largest contributing factor to that disastrous record.

40 YEARS AGO In the NEWS

Aug. 9, 1899

The freight shed at the station is, at present, overcrowded with freight.

In the shower of July 21, lightning struck in a pasture near a cow owned by Mrs D. A. Glines, so injuring the animal that she died last Thursday.

West Bethel—Lysander Ordway is, for the third time, enlarging his store.—The sweet music of a new organ is now heard in our church on Sundays.

BETHEL 2—RUMFORDPIRATES 1

Bethel took a close one from the Rumford Pirates Wednesday night 2 to 1. Bethel was outhit 7 to 1 but managed to score two runs on that hit.

The Pirates scored in the second inning when Weliska walked, Richards singled, Littlehale threw wild to second, advancing Weliska to third and Richards took second E. Gauthier flied out and W. Bowden walked to load the bases and a beautiful play by Bartlett to Littlehale cut off one run on M. Bowden's ground ball. Then Thurston walked O. Gauthier for their only run.

Bethel scored in the fourth when Keddy took first and second on an overthrow, Morgan and Gill walked to load the bases and then Stanley became a hero and singled in the two runs.

Gill and Keddy starred in the field, both turning in some spectacular catches.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

CHOOSING THE NEW CAMERA

For sharp pictures of fast-moving vacation-time games, you'll need a camera with high shutter speeds. A fast lens is helpful, too, when light conditions are adverse.

ABOUT this time of year—and especially with vacations in the offing—many of us feel the need of a finer camera, with greater picture-taking ability.

A fine camera is about as easy to operate as any other, once you are familiar with it. But there is a difference in usefulness between the finer camera and the inexpensive model. Under adverse conditions, especially on dull days or with moving subjects, the inexpensive camera is handicapped. It may fail to get the very picture you want most. But under the same conditions, the fine camera performs capably—insuring good pictures within much wider limits.

In choosing your finer camera, consider these points carefully, so that you can select a model which exactly fits your picture-taking needs:

If you want to be able to take pictures outdoors under all daylight conditions, bright or dull, early morning or late afternoon, choose a camera with a fast lens—an f.6.3, f.4.5 or faster. For night snapshots by ordinary electric light, without "flood" lamps, get a camera with f.2 lens. If "flood" lamps are used, a slower lens will do.

If you want to take pictures of moving subjects—or those likely to move—choose a camera which has a precision shutter with high speeds. A shutter speed of 1/400 or 1/500 second is needed for sports and fast action shots; 1/200 for moderate action; and 1/100 for snaps of slow action or subjects such as babies or pets which may move suddenly and unexpectedly.

Some camera shutters now have built-in self-timer devices, which enable you to appear in pictures taken by yourself. Naturally, the self-timer is an advantage in a vacation or family camera.

Now for picture size. If you expect to have your pictures finished as contact prints for album use, don't choose a camera that takes too small a picture. If, however, you plan to make enlargements, it's safe to pick a camera in the "miniature" group. And, if you want to take full-color transparency pictures, for large-size projection on a home screen, a miniature camera is just what you need.

It's wise to obtain your finer camera well in advance of your vacation, and practice using it. Since these fine cameras are precision instruments, see that yours receives proper care. If treated well, such a camera will give long and meritorious service—service that far outweighs its cost. Just ask the camera hobbyist who owns one!

TRUTH about ADVERTISING

By CHARLES B. ROTH

WHAT ABOUT PRICE?

"A WOMAN," once remarked the famed Hoosier humorist Abe Martin, "will buy anything she thinks the store is losing money on."

That was merely a funnyman's way of saying that in all our buying price is a most important consideration—the one thing with which we are concerned every time we spend a cent.

Charles Roth

Now what really constitutes price and how are prices established? Without getting too deep into economic principles, we know that prices are established by what is called the law of supply and demand.

This law teaches us that when the demand for anything exceeds the supply, prices go up. Conversely, when supply is plentiful but demand is light, prices go down. But how can we as customers know that this law won't be tampered with and men, shrewd, scheming and selfish, step in and raise prices and gouge us by making us pay them? They could, you know, and we would not be any the wiser.

Our safeguard against this is the advertising we see in the newspapers. That protects us. Under our competitive system of buying and selling, one merchant vies with another merchant for our trade. Each comes out publicly in the newspapers with his price. We consult these prices before we buy.

Seen in this light, advertising becomes the informant that prevents dishonest sellers from taking advantage of us and our ignorance of prices we might have to pay.

A recent mystery drama has the villain contriving to plunge the city into complete darkness for one night, so that he and his henchmen can dash in and make away with their loot. "We who have something dastardly to put over," he observed, "must needs fear the light."

High prices, skimpy quality, gyp products also must needs fear the light. That is why they are cloaked in such phrases as: "We don't advertise. We pass the savings along to you." "Why pay the high cost of advertising? We put it into our goods," etc., etc.

But the merchant who advertises uses the light of advertising, and asks you to compare his goods and his prices and to find out before you buy. You can always pay his price, because it is the right price. That you know because the protective power of advertising has told you that it is.

And this protective power of advertising is working for you every time you unfold your newspaper and read an advertisement. That black print on white represents a buying guide which is worth several hundred dollars a year to you and your family.

EXTRA MONEY

The CITIZEN offers an opportunity for industrious workers to engage in a profitable occupation during the month of August. In the territory adjoining Bethel there are numerous homes in which this newspaper is not a regular visitor, and in which a representative of the paper has never called. It is our desire to cover this area during the coming month, and to do this effectively we shall offer attractive commissions, and prizes to the leaders at the end of the month.

Before starting work it will be necessary for the interested parties to learn full particulars at the CITIZEN office or by mail and obtain receipt books and sample copies.

Those who undertake this work may put in as much time as they wish, so that it will not interfere with other employment, and will find a large field of prospects in visitors and former residents who are here at this time of the year. Our principal point at this time, however, is to introduce the CITIZEN into as many year-round homes in the vicinity as possible and a more attractive payment is offered for these new subscriptions.
